Programme for Real Estate, Construction and Building

The programme for Real Estate, Construction and Building is for you who are interested in working on repairs and maintenance of real estate and buildings, both inside and outside.

If you are interested in working with maintenance or ground work in park environments then this programme is also appropriate for you.

You must like collaborating with other people and working with service since you will be working with other people.

This is what you learn on the programme

You will train and practise working on tasks within property maintenance and building. On the programme you will train how to run properties both inside and outside.

This may include repairs, the care of premises and painting. Outside this may involve ground works and the upkeep of green spaces.

You will learn how to use and care for different tools and equipment in the correct way.

On the programme you will train and practise working and speaking with others and providing people with good service.

Work environment (health & service) issues to ensure that you do not suffer workplace injuries in future and to ensure that you have good health in the workplace.

This is how the programme is organised

Subjects common to all special needs upper secondary schools

The national programmes include subjects that everyone shall study. These are designated as general subjects for special needs upper secondary school students.

The subjects are:

- English
- Aesthetic activities
- History
- Physical education and health
- Mathematics
- Nature studies

- Religious studies
- Social studies (civics)
- Swedish or Swedish as a second language.

Standard programme subjects

The programme has vocational subjects or programme-specific subjects which are called standard programme subjects. All students on the Real Estate, Construction and Building programme shall study the following subjects:

- Building and construction
- Real estate maintenance
- Service and reception.

Programme specialisation

You will also study several subjects that provide you with more knowledge within the area you have chosen. These subjects are designated programme specialisation.

Since different schools can offer different subjects as special programmes, you are free to contact the school you wish to apply to and ask which programme specialisation is available at the school.

You can also read more about the programme specialisation at the website www.skolverket.se under the flap Preschools and Schools.

Individual choice

You also make an individual choice. You may yourself choose certain subjects which do not belong to the programme but that all students at the school can study.

---

Subject syllabus

For each subject in the special needs upper secondary school, there is a subject syllabus with credit-yielding courses.

If you succeed in this, the Principal (School Director) may determine that you can study courses or subjects available at the upper secondary school level. In this way you will be further challenged in your studies.

Grades

You receive a grade when the course is completed. The teacher will assess your knowledge and compare it with the requirements or standards set for the grading scale A, C and E.

Apl (Work-based learning)

You practise and apply the knowledge you acquire on the programme at a workplace.

This is called Workplace-based learning (Apl).

Work experience project

To demonstrate that you are well prepared for the working tasks you have learned, you carry out a special needs upper secondary school work experience project (work placement).

Since the work placement shall demonstrate the entirety of your educational attainment, this will be carried out at the end of your education.

Individual study programme

You will have an individual study programme or syllabus. This specifies which subjects and courses you are studying during your upper secondary period of study.

All decisions on what you will study shall be available in the individual study programme.

Special needs upper secondary school student certificate

When you leave the special needs upper secondary school after four years, you obtain a student certificate which shows which knowledge and experiences you have on completing your education there.

The student certificate shows how many points you have studied for during your four years at Upper Secondary School.

If you have an achieved passes in courses that together amount to 2,500 points then you have a complete special needs upper secondary school education.

---

This is how you work on the programme

On the programme you work practically and theoretically on different tasks.

You may be working by yourself and together with others. In different ways you can practise collaborating with others.

On the programme you practise discussing, thinking about and saying what you think.

You also acquire practice in describing how you carry out your work assignments.
